

#MyNCLibrary: Tuesday's Library Challenge Guidelines

Today's the day! You know how no one understands what we do in a given day? Now's our chance to share. Live tweet, write down or put in a spreadsheet all of the great things you do during a given day in the library.

Example Live Tweets:

Random Library @RandomLibrary 10m

Helped a patron create a resume for her job search

Random Library @RandomLibrary 25m

Just fixed a computer problem for a patron. Screen froze.

Random Library @RandomLibrary 10m

Helped a student find articles for project on methods for psychoanalysis

Random Library @RandomLibrary 25m

Gave a presentation on library services to undergraduates

The purpose is to show the myriad of things we do in a day, from research help on varying subjects to job help to fixing computer issues. We want to show not only that we don't just check out books, but that these services are being used in our libraries.

- Please stick to facts regarding what you are doing, no negative opinions.
- Please do not include information that could identify someone in particular or cause controversy (See above request)

Suggestions:

You may just want to leave Twitter open at a service desk or write down/type up items throughout the day and email them to: nclibraryassociation@gmail.com
